

LOW VS. HIGH CHURCH
Preacher Nabbed by the Solid Men of London.

(Almost a riot was created by the solid men of London on the 18th inst. The Rev. J. L. Lynde, known as "Father Time," was preaching against materialism, worldly wisdom, and one day on occasion to denounce Lombard street as worse than Babel, where which man fell among them. This didn't go down very well and a practical rebuke was determined upon by the aggrieved congregation. The aggression was not against the church the following Friday while services were in progress and the locked the outside doors. The aggression was not adopted egres, but as fast as they came they were assailed with a shower of all apples, the assailants having been armed with apples. The results of attack. Old men and young men, old women and young men who had been sitting in the choir, happened to come out when popular interest was at its height. As the speaker said that there was a moment of total fall of rain, he raised his umbrella; at that moment a dexterous workman behind him knocked off his hat, which was seized as a trophy, kicked about among the crowd, and then trampled under foot. The speaker then proceeded to turn into shreds, and thrown out in a hundred directions. A gentleman in the front of the audience, rising, and asking what the connection was about, lost his hat, which was taken from his head by a man dressed as a clown, who then took it to the back of the hall, and it was never seen again. As the speaker, threw his rider and his horse killed him, twenty or thirty clerical gentlemen, who were in the front of the arch, were grossly maltreated, there seemed to be a special aversion to the clergy, and the audience had the misfortune to see the return of

The Working People. The printers' strike in Marseilles, France, is still in full operation. The newspapers are published on half-sheets, and it is stated that it will soon be impossible to print the usual procedure for general elections to be printed. The mayor requested the general command of the troops at Marseilles to allow the strikers to work in the offices as temporary help, but the Mayor of the city, whose consent was necessary, refused to do so.

John Stuart Mill, the well-known English statesman, has written a letter to the House of Commons in which he states that the various forms of co-operation (among which the one most immediately applicable at present to production is the system of shares) in which that is termed the system of small percentage partnerships, are the real only thorough means of healing the

While trending eventually to super-trade unions, are meanwhile a cultural and gradually increasing con-the Labor Congress, which recently held in New York City, contained, claimed, representatives from 600-considered to be exaggerated, since the survey report of 1890 gives the following persons in the following trades: Printers, the United States and territories: Printers, 609; carpenters, 242,908; joiners, 8,328; carpenters, 43,844; 43,844; smiths, 112,357. Making a total of 1884. As there were many other occasions represented, the estimate is in the bounds of probability.

[From the Memphis Appeal, Saturday.]

ARMY: ARMED: ARMS:

Shells and Ammunition for the Loyal Legions—Five Cnr Loads of Arms for

We learn through sources that we can

For a moment doubt the accuracy of the steamer Belle Memphis, now on her way to the Gulf, to distribute the medicine distribution among the loyal negroes in our midst, six thousand and arms, and large quantities of clothing, and other necessities, brought and subscribed by the loyal negroes and Grand Army of the Republic. In the northwest, five car loads of clothing and other necessities, loaded on the steamer Belle Memphis, will arrive here on Sunday night. The local police officers of this port hope that our authorities will take prompt steps to seize the illegal freight, and hold it until there is such explanation as will satisfy the authorities. One of our informants stated that the arms and the ammunition are intended for Arkansas, and that Barbour Lewis, a prominent citizen of this city, is a citizen, according to the Bulletin, the emissary of the Arkansas negroes to negotiate the transaction. It is a pity that the authorities do not catch that has characterized his late at bloody mischief, his arrest engaged the confidence of his annual conference.

We hope Commissioner Beaumont, whom we believe to be opposed to Lewis, will be on the lookout for his freight.

Synod of Tennessee—Negroes Admitted to Maryville College.

During the session of the annual conference (N. S. Presbyterian) has been held at this place. The Synod was held at Rogersville, but owing to the fact that the Rogersville route was very unsafe, the delegates were unable to go there; consequently the Moderator convened the Synod at this place. There were a remarkable number of negroes quite an amount of business transacted. On Saturday evening a knotty question was up. The negroes admitted to Maryville College.
The discussion was protracted and warm, and at the final vote the negro was victorious, having received a majority of now you Presbyterians that have to educate, can do so, at Maryville college, and the Synod of Tennessee, has by a column vote, provided that article in abundantly. It is gratifying, however, to know that the Synod of Tennessee (as well as the entire Holston delegation, with one or two exception) had not voted to censure the Synod of Tennessee, and that the Synod of Tennessee, in its turn, had not taken pleasure in commending the Synod of Tennessee. The Synod of Tennessee, on this question, (Greenville Synod, Oct. 1.

Brutal Wife Murder.

Samuel Babbs has been tried at Jefferson City, Mo., for the murder of his wife and convicted. The case was one of peculiar notoriety. Babbs is an Englishman, a man of considerable means, and of years, aged thirty. Last May he married a bright, pretty and intelligent girl from his own family, and in the family from whom he worked, and who was bb cabin adjoining the house. Mrs. was a lively woman, fond of company and had been excited the jealousy of her violent husband. He was grumbling about for a time, he once deliberately murdered her, called her a slut and a whore, and then gave her another good-bye, and then cut his throat with the same knife. The poor woman's head was nearly severed from her neck, and she lay on the floor across his knee and sawed away at the neck; but in his own case he did not stop. He was drunk, being restored to his senses and confessing that he had been a short time, he had been convicted of murder in the first degree.

The New York Times says of building prosperity in Philadelphia: "What the bricklayers' strike and other such enterprises in building in New York and its vicinity are doing to the building-behind-hand in that matter Philadelphia, on the contrary, has been doing. The whole number of new buildings

On May 1 and Sept. 1, was 3,334, and the estimated buildings 1,004—4,338 all told. The county's moderate estimate is $6,000 as the average value of the sections, and the alterations $800 each. The aggregate of $2,207,200 this year is a low average, for many of the sections are factories, public halls, churches, and so on, which would probably run it up to $3,000,000. The Farmers are evidently prospering, and we congratulate them on it."

... party rapidly in consequence,

